

Day of Suspended Classes: September 18th, 2013

UBC a place of mind THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Indian Residential School Initiative

Home Purpose What People Are Doing Events Ideas Resources Health Supports

Longhouse Student Conference Focuses on Indian Residential Schools
This years Student Conference will be focused on facilitating UBC student participation in TRC events Sept 20, 2013...

Events

- May 27, 2013 3:00 pm – May 27, 2013 4:30 pm
Not Just a Symbolic Day! Truth and Reconciliation Commission Observance Day on September 18th
- September 6, 2013 – December 1, 2013 (All Day)
Belkin Gallery "Bearing Witness: Indian Residential Schools" Exhibit
- September 17, 2013 (All Day)
All Nations Canoe Gathering
- September 18, 2013 – September 21,

UBC is committed to developing a better awareness and understanding of the Indian Residential School system that operated in Canada from 1875-1996. From the 18th to the 21st of September 2013, the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada, begun four years ago to address this history, will be conducting the last of its National Events to be held on the west coast in Vancouver. UBC has taken the extraordinary step of suspending classes on September 18th so that students, faculty, and other members of the UBC community might more fully participate in this historic event and the other events around the city supporting it. Many initiatives are underway on campus to plan and prepare for this event. Learn more about these initiatives and share what you are doing at <http://irsi.aboriginal.ubc.ca/>

Indian
Residential School
Initiatives

irsi.aboriginal.ubc.ca

Initiatives at The University of British Columbia addressing the history and legacy of the Indian Residential Schools in Canada

a place of mind
THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

<http://irsi.aboriginal.ubc.ca>

